A simple transport and practical-support pilot

TRIPLE-C CONSULTING
CONTRIBUTION | COLLABORATION | COMMUNICATION

A small, low-pressure trial designed to make weekly life easier and more reliable.

The idea: pre-arranged driving and light practical support, with clear times, fair payment and a four-week review.

Convenience

Reliable help for selected appointments, errands and local trips, arranged ahead of time.

Peace of mind

Less pressure to rely on the current car when another transport option is available.

Simple and flexible

No long-term commitment. Start small, review what works, and adjust only if it feels worthwhile.

What a starting arrangement could look like

Illustrative figures only. Final pricing would depend on distance, timing and frequency.

Local return trip

$40–$60

Up to about 60–75 minutes,
with local travel.

Extra waiting time

$20–$25

Per additional 30 minutes,
only when agreed.

Practical admin support

$35–$45

Per hour for bookings,
forms or simple coordination.

Example weekly starting point

Weekly local return trips + one hour of practical support

$120–$165

per week

Any petrol, parking or longer-distance costs would be agreed before the trip.

A gentle four-week trial

The aim is to test whether the arrangement is useful, comfortable and affordable.

1

Agree the basics

Choose likely days, local destinations and a simple payment method.

2

Confirm practical requirements

Check insurance and any transport rules before regular paid trips begin.

3

Run the trial

Keep trips pre-arranged and record only the essentials: date, time, distance and cost.

4

Review together

After four weeks, continue, adjust or stop with no pressure.

The decision is simply:

Would a small trial
make life easier?

If yes, agree the first two trips
and review from there.
